

Mirion Technologies is a leading global provider of radiation detection, measurement, analysis and monitoring products and services to the nuclear market. Our customers rely on our solutions to protect people, property and the environment from nuclear and radiological hazards.

We provide the highest quality products and services through our five divisions: Health Physics, Radiation Monitoring Systems, Sensing Systems, Dosimetry Services and Imaging Systems. Our products and services include: dosimeters; contamination & clearance monitors; detection & identification instruments; radiation monitoring systems; electrical penetrations; reactor instrumentation & control equipment and systems; dosimetry services; imaging systems; and related accessories, software and services.